

WELCOME TO UNCLE ED'S

It all began in the back of Anna and Woytko Stawniczzy's general store, when the couple decided to bring the traditional savory meats they enjoyed as kids to their community. Woytko added one small sausage smoker and that's all it took. That single step secured Stawnichy's place at the dinner table across the province for generations to come.

Woytko's son, Edward (Uncle Ed) and his high school sweetheart Jane Stefanyk (Auntie Jane) teamed up with Woytko in 1965 to run Stawnichy's Mundare Sausage. Shortly after Stawnichy's Mundare Sausage grew from a single sausage smoker to a full processing facility.

Uncle Ed was not only an entrepreneur, he was also a local politician, a philanthropist, and an overall good time.

In 1986 they decided to bring their products to the masses and opened Stawnichy's Mundare Sausage House in Edmonton. This location later expanded to include Uncle Ed's, a take-out or sit-down restaurant. The meals come out hot and quick—nothing too fancy; but tasty—just the way baba used to make them.

We like to think of our Ukrainian comfort-food as the best in the city, and through numerous awards over the years, Albertans have tended to agree with us.

Eventually, Edward and Jane's daughters Colette and Cheryl also joined the company as shareholders and the Mundare facility expanded another two times. By 2006, Stawnichy's Mundare Sausage House and Uncle Ed's Restaurant outgrew its location and expanded to a brand new building where it continues to serve Edmontonians today. In 2009, Stawnichy's celebrated a half-century of serving hungry Albertans. This milestone year also sadly saw the loss of Edward.

Four generations later, Stawnichy's Mundare Sausage is still family operated and owned and as committed to their roots and their community as ever.

By maintaining the traditional Ukrainian flavours and developing new products for changing tastes and trends, Stawnichy's continues to grow and serve the dynamic needs of Albertans.

At Stawnichy's we are proud of our Alberta heritage and work hard to preserve the values & traditions of authentic food set forth by its founders. In addition to our restaurant, our attached Deli also carries over 80 unique products that we make in Mundare, as well as, a wide variety of other specialty items representing Eastern European food and culture. And if that's not enough, we also offer catering and have an established history of helping organizations and clubs fundraise.
